

11th Annual Undergraduate Research Conference at the Interface of Biology and Mathematics

November 16-17, 2019

University of Tennessee Conference Center, Knoxville, TN

Undergraduates are invited* to present their research at the interface of biology and mathematics and network with students and mentors from across the country.

- Plenary Talks by Dr. Sadie Ryan, University of Florida, and Dr. Christopher Strickland, University of Tennessee
- Career Panel Discussion
- Graduate School Opportunities Showcase
- Faculty, Students and Local Teachers Invited

Funding for lodging, registration and travel available for a limited number of participants*

More information coming soon at:

http://www.nimbios.org/education/undergrad_conf

Apply for Funding by Oct 1 ♦ Register by Oct 16

The National Institute for Mathematical and Biological Synthesis (NIMBioS) brings together researchers from around the world to collaborate across disciplinary boundaries to investigate solutions to basic and applied problems in the life sciences. NIMBioS is supported by the National Science Foundation with additional support from The University of Tennessee, Knoxville